

Research in Mathematics Education

Call for Editorial Board Members

Research in Mathematics Education (RME) is an international English language journal, publishing original refereed articles on all aspects of mathematics education. Papers address the central issues in terms which are of relevance across educational systems and informed by wider thinking in the field. RME is the official journal of the British Society for Research into Learning Mathematics (BSRLM).

The Executive of the British Society for Research into Learning Mathematics (BSRLM) is inviting proposals to join its Editorial board to support the work of the three Editors. Responsibilities of the Editorial Board include:

Reviewing articles: Members of the Editorial board are asked to commit to reviewing 6 manuscripts a year, though typically members of the board review around 4 papers each year. This is a crucial part of being on the Editorial Board and integral to the continuing success of the Journal.

Participating in board meetings: By attending board meetings we can work together to continue to develop the Journal. Your feedback and experience as an editorial board member are central to informing decisions about the future directions of the Journal. The Editorial Board usually meets every two years.

Encouraging submissions: The journal is interested in high quality submissions on all aspects of mathematics education from around the world and Editorial board members have an essential role in encouraging researchers to submit high quality manuscripts, and to support earlier career researchers to submit.

Suggesting special issues and commentary articles: RME publishes a special issue each year and commentary articles to encourage discussion and debate between researchers.

Citing the Journal: If you are publishing articles in other journals, citing relevant research that has been published in RME to support the broadening of people aware of the high-quality research published within RME.

Applications are welcomed from researchers in mathematics education with previous experience of reviewing and supporting authors. Those interested in applying should send a short statement outlining their reasons for wanting to join the Editorial Board, including a description of their main areas of research and methods of enquiry within the field, a summary of their experience of peer reviewing (maximum 500 words). A brief CV of no more than two pages including details of publications in the field should also be included. All applications should be sent via email to rme@bsrlm.org.uk. The deadline for applications is 31st August 2022. Appointments will be made at the meeting of the Executive in the autumn of 2022.
