BSRLM Executive Annual report 2022: Publications Officer

Two conferences in this reporting year were held online with the final conference (Nottingham June 2022) seeing a return to a face-to-face conference. The number of submissions to the Proceedings from online conferences was generally similar level to that of previous conferences. The number of submissions from the most recent face-to-face conference was lower than with previous face-to-face conferences with a write-up rate of 33% (compared with 55% at the last face-to-face conference in Cambridge, March 2020).

Following each conference, Proceedings were published in the usual ways:

- Online
- As summaries in RME

Conference	Presentations/Workshops/ WGs	Proceedings
November 2021	30	11
March 2022	24	13
June 2022 – New Researchers Day	7	5
June 2022 – Main conference	23	6

This reporting period has seen the embedding of our move to APA 7th and more guidance given in following the BSRLM template. Most authors have found this unproblematic, and papers are only infrequently being returned for using the incorrect style/format.

As before, authors are reminded that they retain the Proceedings copyright and that they are free to deposit these without further permissions in (e.g.) a university repository.
